

Patrick Pfeifer is the new contact for the international project business at KLAFS

— 90 °C

Schwaebisch Hall, January 2015. KLAFS, world market leader in the field of sauna, pool and spa, has a new contact for the international project business: Since the beginning of the year Patrick Pfeifer is the responsible Managing Director of the KLAFS Spa Division. He is the successor of Mr. Adrian Egger, who is now the CEO of a subsidiary of KLAFS in Austria.

— 60 °C

Patrick Pfeifer is 38 years old and has a lot of theoretical and practical knowledge in planning and realizing architecturally and technically demanding construction projects as he is construction engineer specialized in metal constructional and façade engineering. Furthermore he holds a master degree in General Management.

In addition, he has a lot of experience in international project management. Already before joining KLAFS Patrick Pfeifer has been responsible for nine years in the field of project business and individual products as well as sales manager in the international project business for a large company of the construction supply industry. This company is specialized in prefabricated components for steam rooms, experience showers and whirlpools.

— 40 °C

Previously he worked for about nine years as a specialist for system development and project management for a leading supplier of windows and facades.

Further information available at:

KLAFS GmbH & Co. KG, Tel.: +49 (0)791 501-0, or online at www.klafs.com

Caption

Image 1:

Since the beginning of this year Patrick Pfeifer is the new contact for the international project business at KLAFS.

Image source:

KLAFS GmbH & Co. KG

Reprint free of charge with reference to the image source